

Fine Furniture

This Is What "Fine Furniture"

Means to Your Family and Self.

For many years the furniture sold by this house has exercised a distinct influence upon right home furnishing—"interior decoration" some have been kind enough to call it.

The influence thus created was founded upon a close study of and devotion to the interests of our home-loving public and this idea still prevails, namely, that to create a permanent living interest in our stocks the furniture must be fine in quality, fine in appearance, fine in expressing the new designs, and fine from the viewpoint of value.

Your daily contact with it makes imperative the need of friendliness—it must prove up—show its loyalty—remain steadfast and true through the years. Trade secrets must not lurk beneath the surface—it must be as good within as it looks without. "Fine furniture" means this—and much more—to your family and self. It is the very essence of home happiness now and in the time to come.

"The Steps to Conquer" will be read to-night in Howland hall by Miss Edith Colburn Noyes, under the auspices of the Woman's club. Members will be admitted free. Admission to public, 25c. It is hoped that a goodly number will avail themselves of the opportunity to hear such an artist as Miss Noyes.

The Spaulding high school basketball team will meet the Montpelier high team for the first time this season to-night at the Spaulding gymnasium on Washington street. The Montpelier team now stands in the fourth place in the league, having won three out of its five games played. The Spaulding rosters are encouraged at the showing of their team in Hardwick on Saturday. All Spaulding sympathizers should make a special effort to attend this game and give the team their support.

Frederic Edwards, a teacher in Montpelier high school, formerly on the Spaulding high school faculty, received a message early this morning announcing the death of his father, Alfred Edwards, at his home in Somerville, Mass. The latter was 60 years of age and had been in poor health for many years, although he was able to conduct a store in Somerville. Frederic Edwards left Montpelier this noon to attend the funeral and to assist his mother in attending to business affairs.

At a meeting of the board of managers of the Vincella club last evening Gordon Watson of Maple avenue was engaged to serve as steward of the club to succeed John Reid, who completes his duties Friday, having resigned his position to accept the stewardship of Forrest Hill Country club at Belleville, near Newark, N. J. Mr. Watson, who was formerly employed as a foreman at the plant of the Harrison Granite Co., will enter upon his duties at once. Mr. Reid plans to leave Barre with members of his family within a short time.

There was a large assembly of musicians at the year's first rehearsal of the Barre Citizens' band last evening. Until more adequate quarters are secured the band is to continue its occupancy of rooms on the second floor of the old city building, "Music hall," as it is known among the musicians. Some of the new music that is to be used in the summer of 1916 was rehearsed and plans for the coming season were discussed informally after the practice meet. There are plenty of signs to indicate that the band has a prosperous year in prospect and with deserved support from the public, the organization can be easily maintained.

Dr. S. Dana Hubbard, who is to speak in the opera house Thursday evening on "Best Methods of Prevention of Contagious Diseases," has been associated with contagious disease work since 1892. In that year he entered Riverside hospital in New York, where he remained for three years. Following his term of service in the hospital he did medical inspection field work, consisting of the establishment and inspection of quarantine in homes for two years. Acting as diagnostician from 1897 to 1909, he has since been an office executive for the public health department. Dr. Hubbard devotes all his time at present to the working out of problems relating to the most economical and efficient way of handling contagious diseases. The facts brought out in a recent consultation of doctors from several of the largest cities of the country have been published by Dr. Hubbard in book form under the title "Infectious Diseases, Their Administrative Control in Different Cities of the United States." The lecture Thursday night is to be free to the public and will be accompanied by a series of 100 stereopticon slides which will illustrate the causes of infectious diseases and the methods of prevention of the spread of these diseases.

Seager of the Barre Town schools in his address before the members of the men's club in the vestry of the First Presbyterian church last evening. The lecture by Supt. Mr. Seager was introduced by the pastor and throughout the course of his remarks he was accorded careful attention. The speaker spoke briefly of each literary man among several whom he had chosen to discuss. Each reference to a shining light in the field of letters was accompanied by a recitation from memory. Some of the finest products of the literary pen were rendered with fine effect by the superintendent. Among the authors quoted were James Whitcomb Riley, Rudyard Kipling, Sir Walter Scott, Shakespeare, Charles Dickens and Alfred Tennyson. Afterward refreshments of coffee and cake were served and a social hour was enjoyed.
